Setting Up a Salt Water Set Up Without Going Broke

In our November meeting we heard an informative presentation from Lawrence about setting up a salt water set up without spending a lot of money.

Some helpful tips were:

- Check out the online wants ads. Many individuals start a salt water set up and then for multiple reasons have to give up the hobby and sell off their equipment inexpensively
- A tank with live coral has much higher maintenance and set up requirements than a tank that only contains fish
- Look for overseas shopping opportunities (e.g. in the orient) as even with shipping costs there can be a dramatic cost savings
- Consider functional set ups. It is easy to get carried away with very fancy, elaborate filter set ups that are more than is needed in order to maintain fish health and well being.

Events

For the Birds

Our club was able to have an information booth at the National Bird Show in November. Many people popped by the booth to express interest. It is interesting to note the number of people who share the same hobby of bird keeping and fish keeping.

US Fish Club Trip

A trip to several fish stores in the United States was organized by club members for the weekend of December 11th

Remember that in the New Year it will be come increasingly difficult to bring tropical fish into Canada from the US.

Club Annual Auction :November 14th, 2010

We are pleased to report about another successful fish auction.

The auction was well attended and the items moved quickly. Feedback from attendees was positive.

A warm thank you is extended to all of the volunteers who help to make this an event a success. See you next year!

Forum Topic of the Month

This is a new feature to the club. Each month will be a different topic of discussion related to an issue related to fish keeping. Please feel free to share your ideas for future forum topics. This month the topic will be on the forum under the Fish Health and Nutrition section.

December Topic: To add salt or not to add salt. There is an abundance of articles that argue both perspectives on whether or not adding salt to a fresh water aquarium , assists in disease prevention or in the curing of ailments. What is your perspective and experience?
